TO DEFINE NEUTRAL RIGHTS ON HIGH SEAS

COOLIDGE MAY BE ASKED TO CALL CONFERENCE

COMES AS RESULT OF SENATOR
BORAH'S DISCUSSION OF BRIT-ISH RELATIONS

NEUTRAL RIGHTS MUST BE CLEAR, OR NAVAL RACE
MAY FOLLOW

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Jan. 25. — Senator
Borah's frank discussion of relations with Great Britain in his senate speech has resulted in a general agreement today among leaders to include in the pending cruiser bill
his amendment authorizing the president to call an international conference for defining neutral rights of nations on the high seas. The amendment will be adopted.

The chairman of the foreign relations committee astounded the senate late yesterday with the statement that unless some agreement is reached protecting the rights of neutrals in ocean commerce there will be a real naval race with Great Britain.

"I can see nothing for the future
in that event save a superhuman burden of taxation upon the people and perhaps another cataclysm like that of 1914," Borah told the senate.
Advocates of the naval bill agreed with Borah's conclusion and were ready immediately to accept his amendment although Borah is opposed to the bill. The provision would merely express the sense of congress that some definition of a neutral nation's right to carry anything but arms and ammunitions in war times should be guaranteed by international agreement.

He recollected difficulties the United States had in the late world war when Britain declared "nearly everything in the human imagination is contraband." He read British books indicating Great Britain was planning to embark on a policy
of disregarding neutral shipping
rights in war times.

In such a case, Borah said, the United States would need more than the fifteen cruisers provided in the pending bill. A big navy would have to be constructed to protect our commerce, he argued.

The plan to codify maritime law
is an old hobby of Borah's, but in presenting it he raked up all the quiet talk that has been going on concerning the possibilities of a naval race with Britain in view of the collapse of the Geneva disarmament conference last summer.

"In the first place," Borah said,
"I would postpone the actual building of ships for the navy until I could be absolutely satisfied, first,
that there could be no agreement between Great Britain and Japan and the United States and the other naval powers with reference to the size of their respective navies; and secondly, that there could be no agreement with reference to the rights of neutrals at sea," said Borah.

"So far as we are situated at present," Borah continued, "we are in the same position we were at the close of the war. The United States is in position now, and England knows it perfectly well, to build any navy that the United States thinks is necessary to protect her commerce.
"If we make the proposition to protect it, in part at least, through law and by means of understanding as to what the law should be, it does not seem to me possible that England can refuse.

"It may be," Borah said, "she is just as anxious as we to come to an understanding. Are not her people bending under their load of taxes? Is there not every reason why she should wish to lift that burden? Let us not assume the contrary until we have done our part." Borah concluded.

Debate was moving along swiftly
under pressure from the administration leaders who want this last big measure in the administration's program passed before congress adjourns. There was no sign of a fil-luster.

Committees of both houses were working on minor business and the house took up private calendar bills.

with stealing furs and clothing from the home of Mrs. Frank Kelly. The dancer pleaded not guilty.

40 PASSENGERS CAUGHT IN SNOW ARE RESCUED

Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 25.—

SNOW-BOUND NORTHWEST IN COLD WAVE GRIP

FRIGID TEMPERATURES TAKE A TOLL OF SEVEN LIVES IN PERIOD

SERIOUS LOSSES IN CRIPPLED
TRANSPORTATION, UNTOLD SUFFERING

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The snow-bound northwest today entered the fourth day of the most punishing cold wave of the winter with a toll of seven deaths, serious losses in crippled transportation and untold suffering from cruel sub-zero temperatures.

Western Canada, Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin suffered from blistering winds and in some territories the snow was drifted to a depth of 15 feet.

At Prince Albert the temperature dropped to 50 degrees below zero,
while Winnipeg, Bismarck, Huron, Pierre, Moorhead and other cities reported temperatures ranging from 18 to 28 degrees below zero.

The Twin Cities and Duluth escaped the full blast of the wave for here the mercury remained at about 6 below while at Duluth it was just zero.

Trains and busses were delayed
from 15 minutes to an hour and in the heaviest snow belts the bus lines completely ceased operation.

Three deaths were added to Tuesday's toll of four, making seven in all.

Knute Slette, Manchester, Minn., farmer, was frozen to death when he became separated from a funeral party, groped through the storm to an abandoned hearse and crawled inside. His body was found wrapped in a blanket on the floor of the vehicle.

Henry Carr, Westby, Wis., was found frozen to death near his home
after he had apparently lost his way.

Dr. W. P. Nelson, Powers Lake,
N. D., was found frozen to death in his stalled automobile only a short distance from a farm house.

Many other persons were reported injured in traffic accidents when the drifted streets and highway made driving hazardous and others suffered from frozen members and frost bite.

Weather men saw little possibility in changes of temperature today and still more snow was forecast in many districts.

The present cold wave began on Tuesday and has since continued unabated.

Arrested for Alleged Complicity in Holdup of Michigan Bank

Detroit, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Ralph A.
Wood, alleged intended victim of a death plot instigated by his estranged wife, Mrs. Grace Wood, and Cecil Holt, principal state witness in the case against Mrs. Wood, were arrested early today, charged with complicity in the holdup of the Sturgis
National bank, last Dec. 17.

The robbery was committed by five men who escaped with $15,000 in cash and $60,000 in negotiable securities.

STAGES ROBBERY TO RECOVER $1,000 HE GAVE TO GIRL

New York, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Raymond B. King claimed he had been robbed and then he got arrested.
King and Miss Mildred Reed reported
the holdup. Miss Reed was questioned and then King admitted he had staged the robbery to recover
$1,000 he had given the girl.

Opposition to $24,000,000 Prohibition Rider on Deficiency Bill Is Gathering Strength

ADMINISTRATION MOVES TO DEFEAT THE AMENDMENT

CONFERENCE HELD BETWEEN TWO HOUSES OF CON-GRESS

SENTIMENT IS ALSO STRONG AGAINST TAX REFUND PUB-LICITY CLAUSE

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Opposition to the $24,000,000 prohibition rider on the deficiency bill gathered strength today as the administration moved to defeat the amendment in conference between the two houses of congress.

Four of the six conferees to be appointed by senate and house for consideration of the deficiency bill are regarded as hostile to the amendment, it was learned. Sentiment is also strong against the tax refund
publicity clause.

Secretary Mellon, it became known is even firmer in his opposition to the amended Harris amendment
which would create a total dry enforcement fund of $37,500,000 to be spent under the direction of the president than he was to the former proposal to place the entire fund in his hands. The treasury head favors waiting until the commission President-elect Hoover is to appoint has completed its study before adding to the nation's bill for dry law enforcement.

Dissension in the ranks of the Anti-Saloon League over the $24-000,000 appropriation was partially healed today when F. Scott McBride, general and legislative superintendent,
offered to relinquish the latter post.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement cases, believes additional enforcement funds might be used wisely under the administration of the president, she said. She refused to comment directly on the $24,000-000 amendment now pending in the house and passed by the senate.

"I could not conceive of either President Coolidge or President-elect Hoover using such funds unwisely,"
she said.

3 AIRPLANES SEARCH FOR LOST GUIDE

LEWIS SWEET, OF ALANSON, MICH., BELIEVED ADRIPT ON ICE PACK

SWEPT OUT FROM MAINLAND
NEAR PETOSKEY DURING BLIZZARD

Petoskey, Mich., Jan. 25.—(UP)—
Three airplanes circled over the ice
floes of Lake Michigan today, searching for Lewis Sweet, Alanson fishing guide, believed adrift on a huge ice pack which was swept out from the mainland during a blizzard Thursday night.

Two army planes from Selfridge field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., scouted
the solid ice sector off Temperance Point, accompanied by a commercial plane piloted by Albert Abrams, of Lansing, Mich.

Sweet was fishing Tuesday with two companions on an ice formation off Crane Island. As the ice field separated from the mainland, his companions leaped to the shore, but Sweet remained to "land just one more trout."

He was carried swiftly out into the lake and was lost to sight in the storm.

Native fisherman believed Sweet
had only a slight chance of surviving the blizzards that have swept the lake in the last two days.

Mrs. Willebrandt intimated other branches of prohibition enforcement besides the prohibition bureau could use additional money. She declined to say whether she had been hampered in prosecution of prohibition violations because of lack of funds.

HOOVER TO BE VERY BUSY IN FLORIDA

WILL SELECT COMMISSION FOR INVESTIGATION OF PRO-HIBITION

ALSO WILL FORMULATE A GEN-ERAL PROGRAM FOR TIGHT-ENING ENFORCEMENT

By THOMAS L. STOKES

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.— President-elect Herbert Hoover will select while in Florida the personnel of the commission he will appoint for investigation of prohibition and also will formulate a general program for tightening present enforcement.

That is one of the problems he took with him on his fishing expedition.

No word had been received today
from the Hoover fishing party, though none was expected since the two yachts which carried the party
to the fishing grounds off the Florida Keys have no wireless sets. Hoover was to begin his conquest of big game fish today.

The president-elect is canvassing
a list of possible appointees for his prohibition investigation commission. He wants to get capable men who have a reputation for impartial analysis and he intends the commission to be truly impartial.

Appointment of the commission is expected to be one of Hoover's first acts after he becomes president.

Hoover desires to institute the prohibition investigation and to enunciate his general prohibition enforcement program as soon as possible after he takes office in order that he may not be embarrassed by activities of those who would make capital out of any delay or indecision
on his problem.

The president-elect's fishing expedition may result in some new records for these waters. Fishermen this season have been particularly lucky in bringing in large catches
of the big game fish which Hoover seeks.

No newspapermen accompanied the party, at Hoover's request, and four secret service men in a coast guard boat are patrolling the fishing grounds to keep away the prying
and curious.

WANT LICENSE FOR DRIVERS OF AUTOMOBILES

200 REPRESENTATIVES OF THE
MINNESOTA LEAGUE OF MUNI-CIPALITIES FAVOR SAME

EACH APPLICANT REQUIRED TO PROVE FITNESS, PHYSICAL
AND MENTAL

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Two hundred representatives of the Minnesota League of Municipalities gave their approval here late Thursday to a proposed legislative bill which would require an ironclad license for automobile drivers.

Each applicant for a motor license
would be required to prove his fitness, both physical and mental, before he would be granted a license.

A state automobile registrar would be created to examine applicants
and all persons deemed unfit to drive
motor cars would be denied licenses.

The other outstanding action of the league was its refusal to recommend the lowering of iron ore taxes
in northern Minnesota. The proposal went down to a rather decisive defeat following sharp debate.

Delegates gave their approval to planning and zoning laws sponsored by Senator G. D. McCubrey, Moorhead, but failed to reach an agreement on a proposed law to establish budget procedure in cities, villages
and other sub-divisions.

3 Young Children Burned to Death Before Mother's Eyes

Butte, Mont., Jan. 25.—(UP)— While their mother frantically attempted to break away from the grasp of neighbors and rush into the house to save them, three young children were burned to death here today. The home of George Hendra was destroyed and Mrs. Hendra incurred serious burns attempting to rescue her children.

The flames started from a paper
box the oldest of the three children
had set afire and placed in a clothes closet.

PICKED UP IN MID-OCEAN, ADRIPT 8 DAYS IN MOTORBOAT

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 25.—(UP)—
Two Americans, Thomas Flynn and Adolphus Rolee were picked up in mid-ocean by the tanker Ashtabula after drifting for eight days off the Bermudas in a disabled motorboat.

The tug Stabbs, in response to a wireless message, took them off the Ashtabula and brought them here last night. The tanker was bound for Southampton.

TRAGEDY MARS OPENING OF AIRPORT OF SAN ANGELO

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 25.—(UP)— Tragedy marred the formal opening of the municipal airport
today, claiming the life of Al Henley, Dole Pacific flight entrant and one of the nation's most skilled pilots.

Henley, Donald Frazee, professional baseball player, and W. E.
Shyffles, Fort Worth theater manager, were killed when their cabin monoplane crashed in an attempted landing at the airport yesterday. The three men were to have taken a prominent part in the formal opening of the airport today.

Henley was the eleventh of the entrants in the Dole flight to be killed in airplane accidents.

SEN. SULLIVAN INTRODUCES 2 RESOLUTIONS

TO MEMORIALIZE CONGRESS TO AMEND THE FEDERAL LAWS

ASKS GOV. CHRISTIANSON TO
CALL CONFERENCE OF STATES,
DISCUSSING TAXATION

By HECTOR PERRIER

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater today introduced two resolutions in the upper house of the legislature which would provide state taxation of national banks.

The resolutions would memorialize congress to amend federal laws
to make such taxation possible and request Governor Theodore Christianson to call a conference of interested states for the purpose of discussing national bank taxation.

Both resolutions were given second readings today under suspension of rules.

The chairman of the senate committee on taxes and tax laws suggested an appropriation of undetermined amount to defray the expense of an "energetic campaign of promotion and publicity at Washington to inform the public of the facts and the necessity of amending federal laws to give states the right to tax national banks.

Senator A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota,
chairman of the finance committee,
also introduced a resolution of the first importance.

Senator Rockne's resolution would provide for an inquiry into the affairs of the state rural credit bureau
and its investments. He suggested that 18 questions on the matter be forwarded to the bureau with a demand that they be answered.

Senator F. L. MacLean, Minneapolis, introduced a bill which would permit cities of the first class to establish and maintain airports and repeal part of a 1927 bill which limits such cities to one airport.

Senator George Lommen, Eveleth,
presented a bill which would require
all candidates in a primary election
to be listed on one ballot.

In the house two bills were introduced. The first with several authors would provide that prison-made goods should be labelled as such. The other would provide for nomination
and election of legislative candidates
under party designation.

The house committee on crime prevention recommended the passage of a bill which would amend existing laws to permit the governor to name
a chairman to the parole board each two years. At present the senior member of the board of control automatically becomes chairman of the parole body.

Both houses adjourned after short sessions today to accompany Governor Theodore Christianson to Fort Snelling where troops were to perform in winter maneuvers.

who was clubbed to death within a block of her home in Blue Island Tuesday night.

The Blue Island city council pledged $3,000, Mayor Paul T. Klenck of Blue Island, $2,000, and Milton F.
Goodman, millionaire head of the Reliance Manufacturing Company
where Miss Bucholz was employed, $1,000.

Police, after obtaining an accurate
description, announced that the slay-

By THOMAS L. STOKES

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25. — President-elect Herbert Hoover will select while in Florida the personnel of the commission he will appoint for investigation of prohibition and also will formulate a general program for tightening present enforcement.

That is one of the problems he took with him on his fishing expedition.

No word had been received today from the Hoover fishing party, though none was expected since the two yachts which carried the party to the fishing grounds off the Florida Keys have no wireless sets. Hoover was to begin his conquest of big game fish today.

The president-elect is canvassing a list of possible appointees for his prohibition investigation commission. He wants to get capable men who have a reputation for impartial analysis and he intends the commission to be truly impartial.

Appointment of the commission is expected to be one of Hoover's first acts after he becomes president.

Hoover desires to institute the prohibition investigation and to enunciate his general prohibition enforcement program as soon as possible after he takes office in order that he may not be embarrassed by activities of those who would make capital out of any delay or indecision on his problem.

The president-elect's fishing expedition may result in some new records for these waters. Fishermen this season have been particularly lucky in bringing in large catches of the big game fish which Hoover seeks.

No newspapermen accompanied the party, at Hoover's request, and four secret service men in a coast guard boat are patrolling the fishing grounds to keep away the prying and curious.

WANT LICENSE FOR DRIVERS OF AUTOMOBILES

200 REPRESENTATIVES OF THE
MINNESOTA LEAGUE OF MUNI-
CIPALITIES FAVOR SAME

EACH APPLICANT REQUIRED TO PROVE FITNESS, PHYSICAL
AND MENTAL

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP) — Two hundred representatives of the Minnesota League of Municipalities gave their approval here late Thursday to a proposed legislative bill which would require an ironclad license for automobile drivers.

Each applicant for a motor license would be required to prove his fitness, both physical and mental, before he would be granted a license.

A state automobile registrar would be created to examine applicants and all persons deemed unfit to drive motor cars would be denied licenses.

The other outstanding action of the league was its refusal to recommend the lowering of iron ore taxes in northern Minnesota. The proposal went down to a rather decisive defeat following sharp debate.

Delegates gave their approval to planning and zoning laws sponsored by Senator G. D. McCubrey, Moorhead, but failed to reach an agreement on a proposed law to establish budget procedure in cities, villages and other sub-divisions.

3 Young Children Burned to Death Before Mother's Eyes

Butte, Mont., Jan. 25.—(UP)—While their mother frantically attempted to break away from the grasp of neighbors and rush into the house to save them, three young children were burned to death here today. The home of George Hendra was destroyed and Mrs. Hendra incurred serious burns attempting to rescue her children.

The flames started from a paper box the oldest of the three children had set afire and placed in a clothes closet.

PICKED UP IN MID-OCEAN, ADRIPT 8 DAYS IN MOTORBOAT

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Two Americans, Thomas Flynn and Adolphus Rolee were picked up in mid-ocean by the tanker Ash-tabula after drifting for eight days off the Bermudas in a disabled motorboat.

The tug Stabbs, in response to a wireless message, took them off the Ash-tabula and brought them here last night. The tanker was bound for Southampton.

TRAGEDY MARS OPENING OF AIRPORT OF SAN ANGELO

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Tragedy marred the formal opening of the municipal airport today, claiming the life of Al Henley, Dole Pacific flight entrant and one of the nation's most skilled pilots.

Henley, Donald Frazee, professional baseball player, and W. E. Shytles, Fort Worth theater manager, were killed when their cabin monoplane crashed in an attempted landing at the airport yesterday. The three men were to have taken a prominent part in the formal opening of the airport today.

Henley was the eleventh of the entrants in the Dole flight to be killed in airplane accidents.

SEN. SULLIVAN INTRODUCES 2 RESOLUTIONS

AMEND THE FEDERAL LAWS

ASKS GOV. CHRISTIANSON TO
CALL CONFERENCE OF STATES,
DISCUSSING TAXATION

By HECTOR PERRIER

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater today introduced two resolutions in the upper house of the legislature which would provide state taxation of national banks.

The resolutions would memorialize congress to amend federal laws to make such taxation possible and request Governor Theodore Christianson to call a conference of interested states for the purpose of discussing national bank taxation.

Both resolutions were given second readings today under suspension of rules.

The chairman of the senate committee on taxes and tax laws suggested an appropriation of undetermined amount to defray the expense of an "energetic campaign of promotion and publicity at Washington to inform the public of the facts and the necessity of amending federal laws to give states the right to tax national banks."

Senator A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, chairman of the finance committee, also introduced a resolution of the first importance.

Senator Rockne's resolution would provide for an inquiry into the affairs of the state rural credit bureau and its investments. He suggested that 18 questions on the matter be forwarded to the bureau with a demand that they be answered.

Senator F. L. MacLean, Minneapolis, introduced a bill which would permit cities of the first class to establish and maintain airports and repeal part of a 1927 bill which limits such cities to one airport.

Senator George Lommen, Eveleth, presented a bill which would require all candidates in a primary election to be listed on one ballot.

In the house two bills were introduced. The first with several authors would provide that prison-made goods should be labelled as such. The other would provide for nomination and election of legislative candidates under party designation.

The house committee on crime prevention recommended the passage of a bill which would amend existing laws to permit the governor to name a chairman to the parole board each two years. At present the senior member of the board of control automatically becomes chairman of the parole body.

Both houses adjourned after short sessions today to accompany Governor Theodore Christianson to Fort Snelling where troops were to perform in winter maneuvers.

$6,000 REWARD IS POSTED FOR CAPTURE OF GIRL'S SLAYER

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—A reward of $6,000 was posted today for the capture of the slayer of Laura Bucholz, 26-year-old office employee, who was clubbed to death within a block of her home in Blue Island Tuesday night.

The Blue Island city council pledged $2,000, Mayor Paul T. Klenck of Blue Island, $2,000, and Milton F. Goodman, millionaire head of the Reliance Manufacturing Company where Miss Bucholz was employed, $1,000.

Police, after obtaining an accurate description, announced that the slayer was a hobo who was seen after the murder of a watchman at a railroad shanty near the Rock Island lines in Blue Island.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Declaration of intention to marry has been filed here by William Jennings Bryan, 39, son of the late democratic leader, and Mrs. Ellen Bent Ballinger, 37, Los Angeles divorcee. Bryan obtained a divorce in October 1927 from Mrs. Helen Virginia Bryan.

When President-elect Hoover departed from Washington for a rest and vacation he left behind the conviction that he already had decided, tentatively at least, just who should be invited to join his cabinet. Among those deemed most certain of portfolios are, l. to r. at top, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture (retained); Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy (retained); William J. Donovan, attorney-general, and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury (retained), and, below, Julius Klein, secretary of commerce, and Dwight W. Morrow, secretary of state.

GEORGE THOMAS OF AKRON,
OHIO, CLIMAXES
QUARREL

MARITAL STRIFE HAD BEEN
COMMON WITH COUPLE
MANY YEARS

Akron, O., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Believed temporarily insane, George Thomas, 30, shot and killed his four-year-old son, Robert, shot his two-year-old daughter as she lay in her crib, gouged his wife's eyes so badly she may be blind for life, and then killed himself here last night.

The tragedy was the climax to a bitter quarrel—a dispute which has raged intermittently since the Thomas' were married in Lorain, O., Nov. 16, 1922, according to police.

The baby Rose, is not expected to live. Little Robert died in his mother's arms. Thomas shot himself twice, then drank poison. He died six hours later, begging his wife for forgiveness.

Thomas' wife, Helen, 22, physicians said probably will be blind for life. She told a story of bitter strife, of constant marital turmoil caused by distrust.

"He wanted me to quit working," Mrs. Thomas said. "Countless times since we were married he has threatened to gouge out my eyes or disfigure me for life. Last night he seemed more jealous than ever."

"I was playing the phonograph when I saw him come at me."

"He struck me several times, then grabbed me around the waist with one hand and with the other started to gouge my eyes," Mrs. Thomas continued.

Little Robert aroused by the noise, peered affrightedly from behind a bedroom door. Mrs. Thomas said her husband whipped out a gun and shot the boy.

Thomas then ran to the living room where Rose was sleeping in her crib.

Mrs. Thomas snatched up the baby and crawled out the front door where a neighbor found her and called police.

SHUMAKER IS REMAINED TO CUSTODY OF SHERIFF

Indianapolis, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell, today remanded the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League for 26 years, to the custody of the sheriff of the state supreme court to serve his sixty day sentence on the Indiana State farm for contempt of the state supreme court.

The judge overruled Shumaker's petition for a writ of habeas corpus to prevent the sheriff from taking him to the farm on the ground the state supreme court violated his constitutional rights in holding him guilty and in re-committing him after Governor Ed Jackson had pardoned him last September.

The decision apparently means that unless Shumaker appeals, he is at the mercy of the state supreme court with which he has been having difficulty for more than two years.

The supreme court found Shumaker guilty and committed him to the prison farm and fined him $250 last fall after legal maneuverings lasting two years. Shumaker paid the fine, but as he started to the prison farm, Governor Ed Jackson pardoned him.

The supreme court early in December held that Shumaker must serve the sentence.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

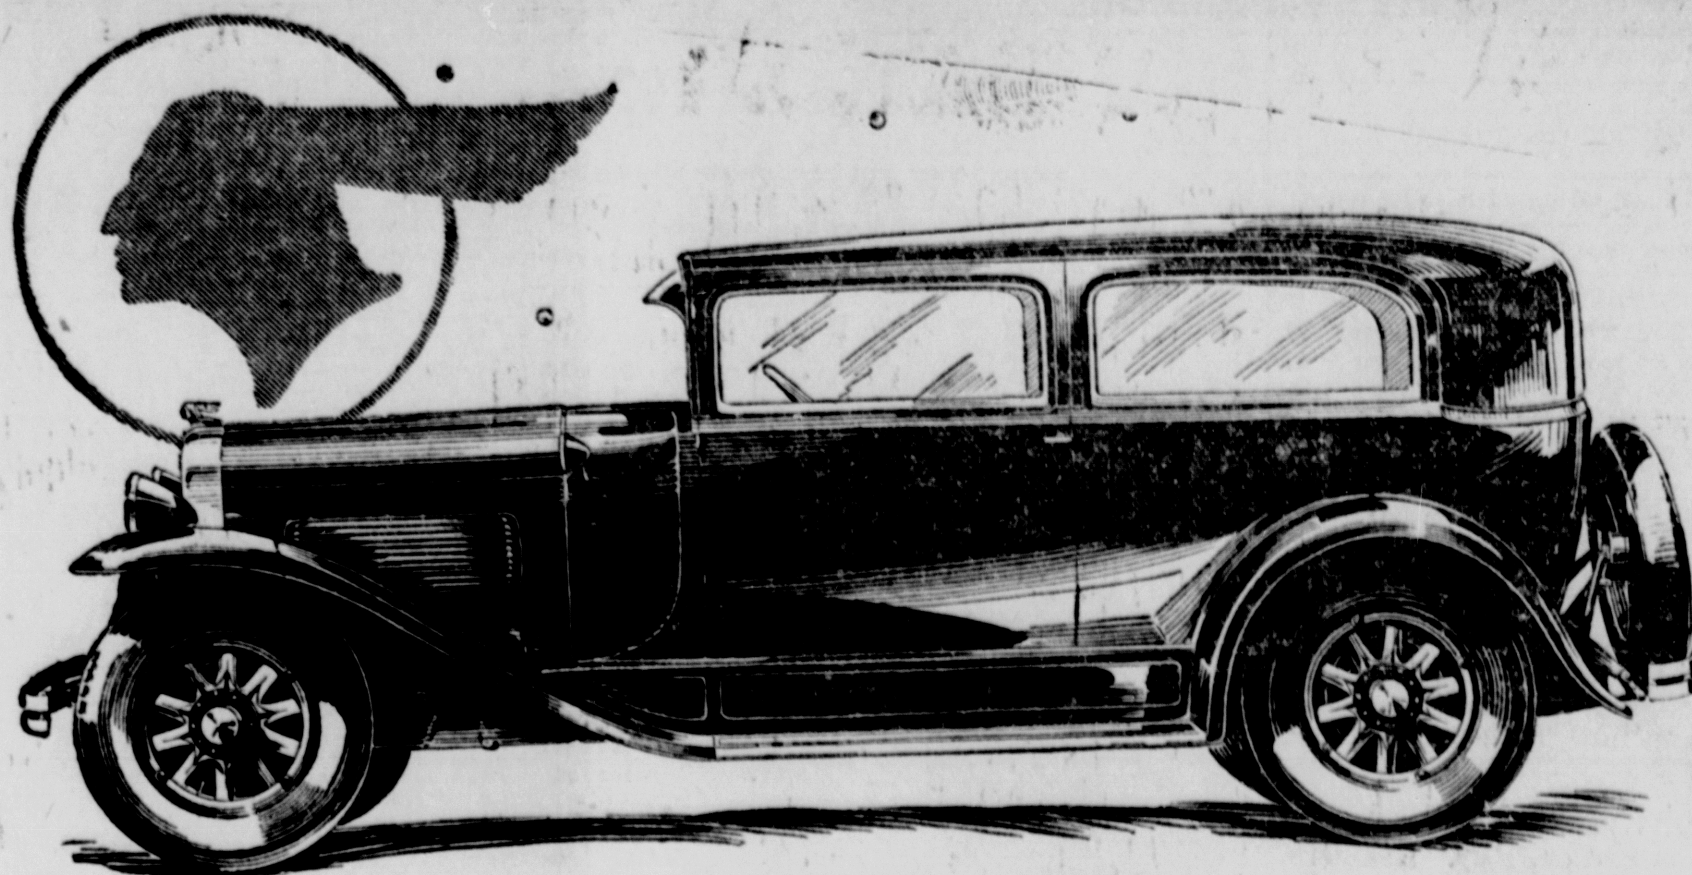

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

announcing The New PONTIAC BIG SIX

Introducing Big Car Standards of Luxury, Style and Performance at $745

TODAY a new type of low cost motoring luxury is available. It embraces big car style. It provides big car riding comfort. It embodies big car quality in unseen parts. It includes big car performance even to the point of developing big car power and big car speed. It is offered by a brand new automobile—the New Pontiac Big Six.

The Pontiac Big Six represents more than a new assembly of gears and gadgets. Of course, some people delight in lists of specifications. Pontiac's new specifications will open their eyes. But these specifications are only a fraction of what the Pontiac Big Six brings into the picture. They fail to hint at the luxury, the beauty and the pride of ownership upon which Pontiac's appeal to the American public is based.

Frankly, the New Pontiac Big Six was designed to appeal to a certain group. True, every motor car owner in America will find in it many things to admire. Two-car families will find it an ideal second car. But the group for which it is primarily intended is made up of people who are beginning to move up in the world. Their wants are enlarging. Their ideas of beauty and luxury are growing. Many of them will soon make the first important step up in the quality of their cars. The New Pontiac Big Six was designed for them.

These up-and-coming Americans are continually on the lookout for new, more arresting style. The Pontiac Big Six comes to them entirely new in appearance. Stunning new bodies by Fisher contribute to the big car beauty and big car style presented by the car as a whole.

Progressive people are seeking greater luxury. The Pontiac Big Six offers them the luxury, the deep, richly upholstered cushions and the charming appointments for which bodies by Fisher are famous the world over. It provides the smooth-riding qualities of a car 167 inches in overall length, with accurately balanced rotating mechanical parts and such advanced comfort features as adjustable drivers' seats.

Forward-looking Americans can be satisfied only with a car that comes close to mechanical perfection. Let's see how this great new Pontiac meets this particular demand.

It is a six, but more than just a six. It is a six with the added power of a larger L-head engine and the added smoothness imparted by a dynamically balanced, counter-weighted crankshaft and the famous Harmonic Balancer. It is a six with the added efficiency and silence achieved by means of the G-M-R cylinder head. It is a six with the added cold-weather advantages provided by the cross-flow radiator, thermostatically controlled.

From fan to rear axle, its "line of drive" is in accurate dynamic balance. Its new brakes are of the internal-expanding four-wheel type which neither mud nor rain nor ice can prevent from operating efficiently.

As for its performance, you can drive it at express train speed. You can watch it accelerate alongside the finest cars on the road. You can test its power under any conditions, confident of its ability to pull through. Meanwhile it continues to provide that unmatched dependability for which every Pontiac since the first one has been famed.

Only a few highlights in its construction have been mentioned. Just enough to prove that the Pontiac Big Six is entirely new and capable of meeting progressive Americans' demand. But the amazing thing about it is that it gives so much big car luxury, style and performance at prices which come within practically everyone's reach!

Prices, $745 and up, f.o.b. factory, plus delivery charges. Bumpers and rear fender guards regular equipment at slight extra cost. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

MARKHAM'S WAY OUT

EDWIN MARKHAM, one of America's best known poets, and the author of "The Man With the Hoe," tells in a recent magazine article how he found the way out of one of the darkest crises in his life. He has made a fortune from his poems and had enough money to take care of him the rest of his life. Then he made some unwise investments and lost all his money. At sixty he was practically penniless.

Of course he was discouraged and there were times when he felt so crushed that it seemed as if he must give up. But there were two things which saved him and helped him to get on his feet again. First he made arrangements to go on the lecture platform and give readings from his poems. He had one idea in his lectures and that was to help other people bear their burdens. That was the first thing that helped him. By helping others get out of their own troubles he found a way out of his own.

The other thing that helped him was his philosophy of life. His philosophy was that happiness does not always depend upon the amount of property you own, but upon true friends and an opportunity to earn your way by labor. Once he realized that although he had lost a fortune he still had left his friends and an opportunity to work, he knew that he was far from being poor, and that there was no need of being discouraged.

The other point in his philosophy was the belief, as he expressed it, in "the survival of the soul," that in this world we are preparing for another adventure in a more helpful sphere. "Life," he says, "is but a spiritual kindergarten for the high school ahead."

This is a recipe for conquering disappointment and failure that has been tried. It has been tried by a man at the end of life. Yet it will work just as well at the beginning of life, for you will meet disappointments too and will need a way to overcome them.—Albert A. Rand in Front Rank.

ROLAND H. HARTLEY, GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON

IN the early days Roland Hill Hartley, now governor of Washington, lived in Brainerd. Mrs. E. M. Westfall, former resident of Brainerd, writing of home town memories, addresses the Dispatch a letter from Olympia, Wash., and refers to the life and achievements of the executive.

"As I came up here from California last Monday (January 14) to attend the following ceremonies, I thought our 'home town friends' might be interested in reading an account of them in the Dispatch.

"On January 15 the inaugural ball was held in the armory here and was a brilliant affair. The following evening, January 16, the present governor, Roland Hill Hartley, was inducted into office of his second term. Governor Hartley is making history, as this is the first time in the state of Washington where the Republican governor has succeeded himself, and also where his message to the House and Senate was broadcast, so that many thousand people had the opportunity of hearing him on the air.

"To those who knew him when a lad in Brainerd, it is most gratifying to have watched his progress and while he has achieved high honors from the state of Washington, he still retains the loyalty of friends that he possessed when a mere boy, who then little thought that within a few years, he would be the governor of this beautiful state of Washington. He carried a 68,000 majority at the last election."

FORESIGHT

VISUALIZE, if you can, the present Brainerd business district as the trade center of a hundred thousand summer population. The streets clogged with high priced automobiles (owned by citizens as well as visitors), stores crowded with shoppers, streets jammed with pleasure seekers. Shops, drugstores, fountains, groceries—all places of business packed with willing buyers. The turmoil of the business of a hundred thousand people crowded into the business center of a town of ten thousand. The town itself dripping with prosperity and dollars. Some newcomers crowding in, but in the main the fortunate few who now live and do business here.

This is the essence of the picture drawn for us by the Chamber of Commerce Hotel Committee. Possible? Yes. Probable? With united effort, yes. A summer population of one hundred thousand in the Brainerd lake district would do it. And if Brainerd can be made a center of resort activities the number of summer residents is not at all impossible. Brainerd has the lakes, the roads—the physical requirements. Alexandria already claims a summer population of 25,000. What is the psychological spark that will kindle the desire of many tourists—100,000 of them—to visit and make their summer home in the Brainerd lake district? The Hotel Committee believes that high class, strictly modern resort hotel accommodations is the first endeavor.

A GOOD RESOLUTION

My city is where my home is; where my business or job is located; where my vote is cast; where my children are educated; where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived.

It is the home spot for me and mine.
My city has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I must support it. My city wants my citizenship—not only my partisanship; my friendship—not offhensiveness; my co-operation—not dissension; my sympathy—not antagonism; my intelligent support—not thoughtless indifference.

My city supplies me with law and order, trade, friends, education, recreation and all rights of a freeborn American. I should believe in my city and work for it.
And I will.—Selected.

A WIDOW of a business man in a neighboring town ordered a tombstone for her husband and in discussing it with the agent of the company said she wanted just a plain stone. "But you want his name and epitaph inscribed on it?" the agent asked. "No," she replied, "you see my husband didn't believe in advertising."
—Aitkin Republican.

LIFE is made up of a lot of commonplace things. Joy comes most to him who can appreciate philosophically his advantages.

OPEN SEASON FOR HOLDOUTS NOW RULING IN BASEBALL

COCHRANE, HAINES, BUDDY MYER AND WANER BROTHERS

EXPRESSING DISSATISFACTION OVER TERMS OF 1929 CONTRACTS

COCHRANE, MOST VALUABLE PLAYER, OBJECTS TO SALARY OFFERED

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 25.—The open season for holdouts has arrived and included in the first group of baseball stars to express dissatisfaction over the terms of their 1929 contracts are Mickey Cochrane, Jess Haines, Buddy Myer and the Waner brothers.

Cochrane seems the most serious holdout. The peppy Philadelphia Athletics' catcher, who was awarded the American League's most valuable player prize last season, was so surprised when he read the salary offered him, he exclaimed:

"Why, there's been a mistake! This can't be my contract."

Both Lloyd and Paul Waner have returned their unsigned contracts to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the club, however, denied they are holdouts.

Jess Haines, who was one of the bitterest holdouts of two seasons ago, talked terms recently with Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and failed to sign a contract.

Haines won 20 games and lost 8 last season and included among his victories were eight straight during the hard drive for the pennant. Haines believes he is entitled to the highest salary on the Cardinals.

Although only 12 out of 32 players of the Washington Senators' squad have signed their contracts, Buddy Myer, third baseman acquired from the Boston Red Sox in a trade for five players, is believed to be the only holdout.

The New York Yankees have eight of their regulars signed, including Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Herb Pennock.

B. H. S. HAS EVEN CHANCE IN GAME AT LITTLE FALLS

GAME TONIGHT WILL GET UNDER WAY AT 7:30 O'CLOCK; TEAM'S CONDITION BETTER

DOWN RIVER TEAM LOSES FOUR OF REGULARS THROUGH 8-SEMESTER RULING

Through the "eight semester ruling," four of the regulars of the Little Falls high school basketball team will be missing from the ranks in the game with Brainerd at the down river town tonight.

The chances of the two teams for a win are even up, considering Brainerd's condition through lack of floor facilities in Brainerd, although the local team has improved considerably from last week when it lost to Crosby-Ironton.

A practice on the C.-I. gym Wednesday gave the locals the advantage of working out on a regular sized gymnasium. It should help them considerably tonight.

Practically the same lineup as was used by Brainerd in the C.-I. game will be in the game tonight.

The team will travel to Little Falls by car.

MOTHER TO TESTIFY IN BEHALF OF SON

Riverside, Calif., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, now serving a life sentence for murder, will be brought from San Quentin penitentiary to testify in behalf of her son, Gordon Stewart Northcott, accused "murder farm" slayer of three boys.

Mrs. Northcott was convicted of the murder of young Walter Collins, for whose death her son must stand trial later. In the present trial, Northcott is accused of abusing and slaying Lewis and Nelson Winslow and a young Mexican boy, whose headless body was found at Pueno, Cal.

Northcott, continuing to act as his own defense counsel, presented the motion asking permission to call his mother as a defense witness. The motion was granted.

TO ELIMINATE UNDESIRABLE IN RING SPORT

PAUL PREHN, NATIONAL BOXING ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT, TAKES STAND

CLEAN SPORT MAY RESULT IN LEGALIZING BOXING IN ALL STATES

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Fighting to eliminate the undesirable element of the sport ring, Paul Prehn, new president of the National Boxing Association, has begun work on a plan which he believes will result in eventual legalizing of boxing in all states.

"We've got to get rid of the undesirable," Prehn said. "When we can convince everybody that the tricky managers and the 'diving' fighters are passe, we will have gone a long way."

"The first thing we've got to do," he said, "is to obtain co-operation between all the states in which boxing now is a legal sport."

Of the 38 states which have legalized ring matches, only 26 are functioning under agreements with the National Boxing Association. This fact allows many National rules to be violated in the states which are not affiliated with the N. B. A.

"For instance," Prehn said, "there is the rule which provides that fighters must rest six days between ten rounders. No boxer can fight a ten round match in an N. B. A. state unless he has had six days' rest. But he can fight tonight in Chicago and then jump into Indiana or Iowa for a fight a couple of days later. Indiana or Iowa are not affiliated with the N. B. A."

Prehn then referred to the "diving" fighter, who uses many different aliases and voluntarily takes beatings from opponents.

"The N. B. A. has every fighter's photograph and record in its files. Our states can refrain from giving the 'divers' any matches. But an unorganized state has no way of checking."

Within a few weeks Prehn will begin a "good will" tour of the United States in an attempt to interest all states in legalized boxing.

QUESTION MARK IS DELAYED BY FOG

Shreveport, La., Jan. 24.—(UP)—Delayed here for more than a day on account of heavy fog, the army endurance plane, Question Mark, continued its flight to Washington today shortly before noon.

Landing here late Tuesday, the plane was unable to continue its cross country flight yesterday and early today on account of fog and rain. The weather cleared, however, this morning.

Keeper charged Miss Carol and her mother went to California a year ago where Mrs. Keeper changed her name to Sue Carol and entered the movies. Since then, the plaintiff said, Miss Carol has refused to return to him.

REP. SCALLON PUTS IN BILLS ON MINING TAX

REDUCTION IN OCCUPATIONAL AND ROYALTY TAXES PROPOSED

BILL DRAWN BY REP. SCALLON AND FIFTEEN HOUSE ASSOCIATES

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Iron range representatives in the Minnesota house today launched a counter move in the mining tax squabble.

Reduction of the occupational and royalty taxes imposed by the state from 6 to 4 per cent will be proposed in two bills supported and drawn by Rep. E. P. Scallon, Crosby, and fifteen others.

The proposal includes the application of the reduced rate this year.

Another move in the house today was introduction of a bill by Rep. Albert Lagerstedt, Gibbon, to name a joint committee of three members from each chamber to investigate and report whether 75 per cent of Minnesota's trunk highway system is permanently improved, as required before additional routes can be named. Duluth has already asked the designation of two new routes within its limits.

The range delegation's tax plan follows the tax commission's proposal to reduce the assessed valuation on ore properties, and is seen as a counteracting move.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS IN TURMOIL OF LOCAL POLITICS

Columbia Heights, Minn., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The Citizens' club of Columbia Heights today threw their forces into the fight between William R. Foster, the "school boy mayor" and the "old gang" who seek to oust him from office by a special election.

Bert Marchand, president of the Citizens' club, offered the 23-year-old Minnesota university student the assistance of his organization in an attempt to have the state supreme court invalidate the special election called for March 2.

Opponents of the youthful mayor charged that he was unfit for office and that he swore in council meetings.

"The whole thing is nothing but a grudge affair," Marchand said. "Foster went into office and cleaned out the old gang pretty well, and now they are all mad and jealous."

We intend to back him to the limit."

Gust Holm, plumber, one of the leaders of the opposition, retallied with:

"Foster got the big head in great fashion when he went into office. He got it so badly he wouldn't speak to anyone. The trouble started when he disregarded the gambling laws and fired the city manager and one police officer. He has experience now but he certainly got off to a poor start."

Meanwhile the soft spoken boy who was elected head of the village at 21 laughed his way through the squabble.

"If we can't beat them out of the special election we can beat them in the election," he said.

In addition to his mayoralty duties Foster is employed as a full time accountant in a Minneapolis business house and attends the university night school business classes.

CONVICTED OF BURNING THE HANDS OF ADOPTED 7 YEAR OLD DAUGHTER

Camden, N. J., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Convicted of burning the hands of their 7-year-old adopted daughter, Betty Hinkle, with hot wires, and otherwise mistreating her, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Roberts were at liberty on bail today as preparations got under way to appeal their case.

Sentence of from two to six years imprisonment, provided in statutes for atrocious assault and battery, was expected to be imposed today.

It was charged the Roberts burned Betty's hands, flogged her with a belt buckle, made her eat with the dog, and inflicted other cruelties.

GANGLAND USES TORTURE FOR REVENGE

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Sudden death is not always gangland's method of avenging itself against suspected traitors; torture sometimes is in store for the man who defies the gang.

Nunzio Porromenta, who tends an alcohol still on the South side, learned that last night after he had been kidnapped by two men in an automobile.

Porromenta's captors forced him to take off his clothes and put on a suit which they had soaked in alcohol.

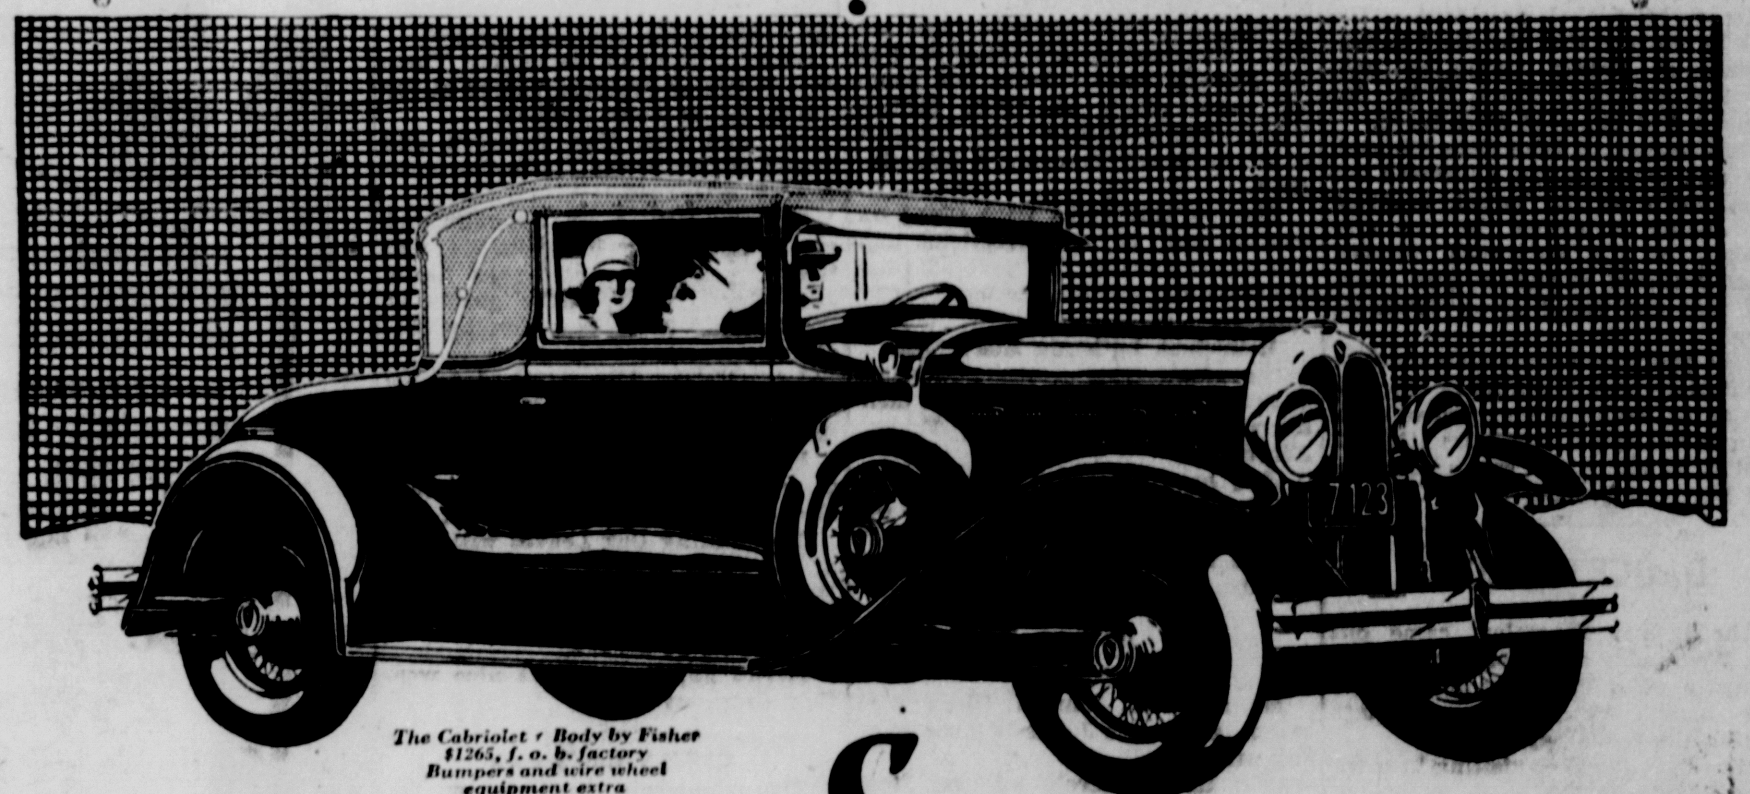

"Now we are going to burn you to death," they told him.

Porromenta screamed and his cries attracted passing motorists. The captors then decided to give up their torture plan. Drawing guns they shot Porromenta through the abdomen, tossed him out of the automobile and drove away.

The clothing which physicians removed from Porromenta at the hospital was saturated with alcohol.

A. state unless he has had six days' rest. But he can fight tonight in Chicago and then jump into Indiana or Iowa for a fight a couple of days later. Indiana or Iowa are not affiliated with the N. B. A."

Prehn then referred to the "diving" fighter, who uses many different aliases and voluntarily takes beatings from opponents. "The N. B. A. has every fighter's photograph and record in its files. Our states can refrain from giving the 'divers' any matches. But an unorganized state has no way of checking."

Within a few weeks Prehn will begin a "good will" tour of the United States in an attempt to interest all states in legalized boxing.

QUESTION MARK IS DELAYED BY FOG

Shreveport, La., Jan. 24.—(UP)—Delayed here for more than a day on account of heavy fog, the army endurance plane, Question Mark, continued its flight to Washington today shortly before noon. Landing here late Tuesday, the plane was unable to continue its cross country flight yesterday and early today on account of fogs and rain. The weather cleared, however, this morning.

MANY CHARGES MADE FOR DIVORCE

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The charge that his wife deserted him, changed her name and refused to return to him from the movies won Allan H. Keeper, wealthy livestock dealer, a divorce from Sue Carol, film actress. Keeper charged Miss Carol and her mother went to California a year ago where Mrs. Keeper changed her name to Sue Carol and entered the movies. Since then, the plaintiff said, Miss Carol has refused to return to him.

REP. SCALLON PUTS IN BILLS ON MINING TAX

REDUCTION IN OCCUPATIONAL AND ROYALTY TAXES PROPOSED

BILL DRAWN BY REP. SCALLON AND FIFTEEN HOUSE ASSOCIATES

St. Paul, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Iron range representatives in the Minnesota house today launched a counter move in the mining tax squabble.

Reduction of the occupational and royalty taxes imposed by the state from 6 to 4 per cent will be proposed in two bills supported and drawn by Rep. E. P. Scallon, Crosby, and fifteen others.

THE PROPOSAL INCLUDES THE APPLICATION OF THE REDUCED RATE THIS YEAR.

Another move in the house today was introduction of a bill by Rep. Albert Lagerstedt, Gibbon, to name a joint committee of three members from each chamber to investigation and report whether 75 per cent of Minnesota's trunk highway system is permanently improved, as required before additional routes can be named. Duluth has already asked the designation of two new routes within its limits.

The range delegation's tax plan follows the tax commission's proposal to reduce the assessed valuation on ore properties, and is seen as a countervailing move.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS IN TURMOIL OF LOCAL POLITICS

Columbia Heights, Minn., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The Citizen's club of Columbia Heights today threw their forces into the fight between William R. Foster, the "school boy mayor" and the "old gang" who seek to oust him from office by a special election.

Bert Marchand, president of the Citizen's club, offered the 23-year-old Minnesota university student the assistance of his organization in an attempt to have the state supreme court invalidate the special election called for March 2.

Opponents of the youthful mayor charged that he was unfit for office and that he swore in council meetings.

"The whole thing is nothing but a grudge affair," Marchand said. "Foster went into office and cleaned out the old gang pretty well, and now they are all mad and jealous."

WE INTEND TO BACK HIM TO THE LIMIT.

Gust Holm, plumber, one of the leaders of the opposition, retaliated with: "Foster got the big head in great fashion when he went into office. He got it so badly he wouldn't speak to anyone. The trouble started when he disregarded the gambling laws and fired the city manager and one police officer. He has experience now but he certainly got off to a poor start."

Meanwhile the soft spoken boy who was elected head of the village at 21 laughed his way through the squabble.

"If we can't beat them out of the special election we can beat them in the election," he said. In addition to his mayoralty duties Foster is employed as a full time accountant in a Minneapolis business house and attends the university night school business classes.

CONVICTED OF BURNING THE HANDS OF ADOPTED 7 YEAR OLD DAUGHTER

Camden, N. J., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Convicted of burning the hands of their 7-year-old adopted daughter, Betty Hinkle, with hot wires, and otherwise mistreating her, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Roberts were at liberty on bail today as preparations got under way to appeal their case.

Sentence of from two to six years imprisonment, provided in statutes for atrocious assault and battery, was expected to be imposed today.

It was charged the Roberts burned Betty's hands, flogged her with a belt buckle, made her eat with the dog, and inflicted other cruelties.

GANGLAND USES TORTURE FOR REVENGE

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Sudden death is not always ganglands method of avenging itself against suspected traitors; torture sometimes is in store for the man who defies the gang.

Nunzio Porromenta, who tends an alcohol still on the South side, learned that last night after he had been kidnapped by two men in an automobile.

Porromenta's captors forced him to take off his clothes and put on a suit which they had soaked in alcohol.

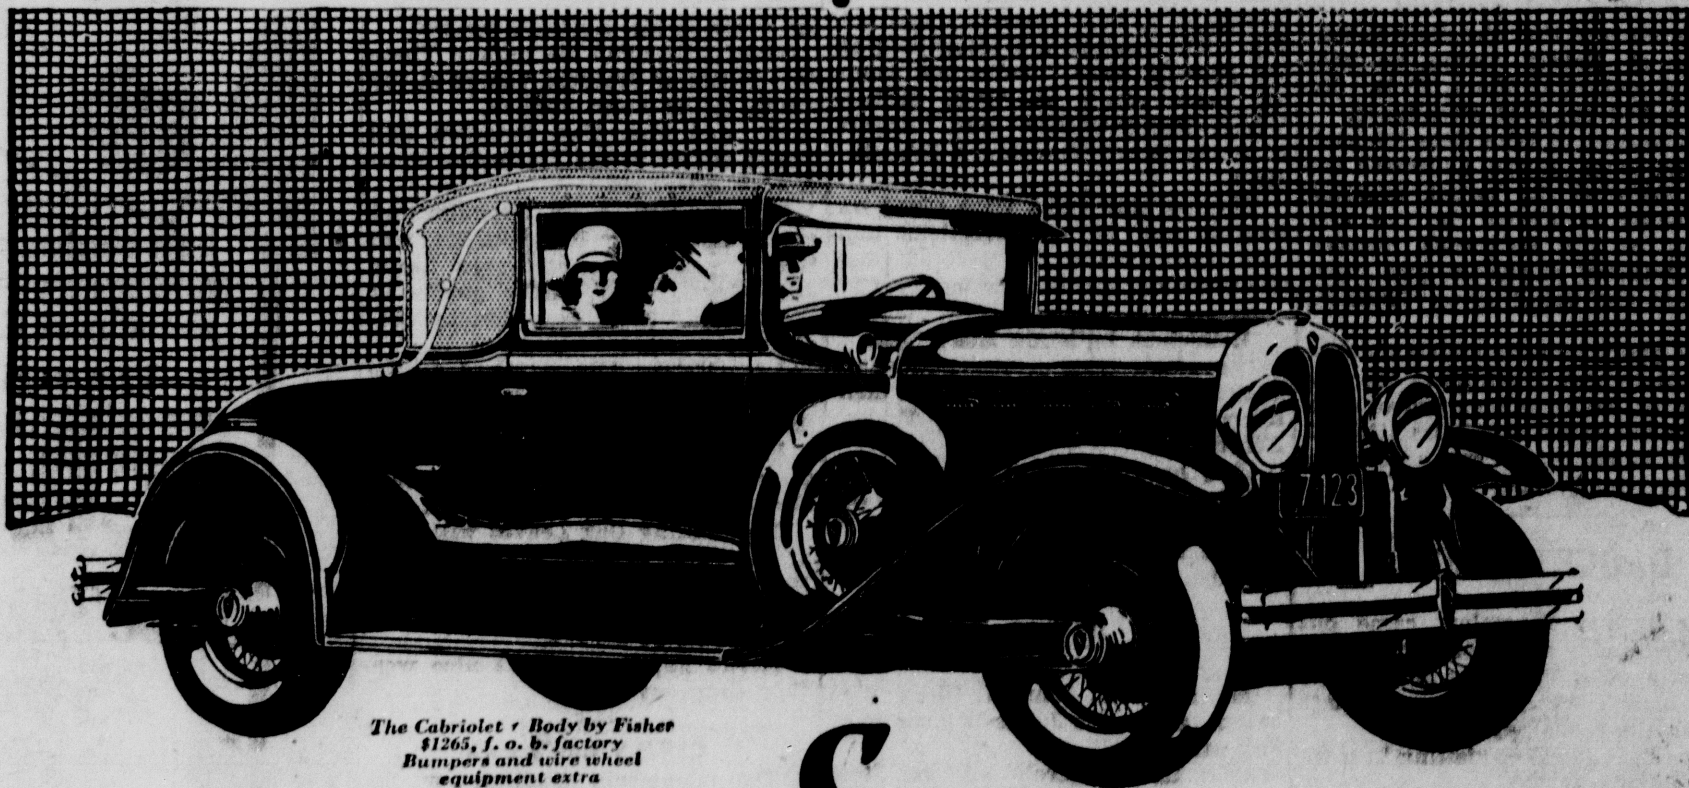

"Now we are going to burn you to death," they told him.

Porromenta screamed and his cries attracted passing motorists. The captors then decided to give up their torture plan. Drawing guns they shot Porromenta through the abdomen, tossed him out of the automobile and drove away.

The clothing which physicians removed from Porromenta at the hospital was saturated with alcohol.

City Treasurer of Bemidji Tells of Undesirable Condition From Drainage Policy

MILLION ACRES AFFECTED

City and School Nurse Outlines Health Program in City Schools

George W. Rhea, vice president of the Northern National bank and city treasurer of Bemidji, was the speaker of the day at the Rotary meeting last Tuesday and told of the deplorable condition of Beltrami, Lake of the Woods and Koochiching counties which because of a drainage policy adopted by this state now virtually find themselves bankrupt.

"A large percentage of the territory drained was non-agriculture."

In each case in Beltrami county where petitions were filed for ditch construction the same were granted by the court. Many protests were filed by citizens of the southern end of the county against the construction of ditches and a large number of citizens would appear in person before the court to protest the construction of the ditches, but they were always informed by the presiding judge, that, unless they owned land in the area, they could not be heard, as their lands were not affected," said Mr. Rhea.

"The three counties are now so overlanded with bonds of this description that they can never hope to repay principal and interest."

"Bemidji people favor the establishment of a large game preserve in the abandoned land, and that the tax laws of the state be so amended as to permit the state to buy tax certificates from the counties within the area and gain title to all delinquent land. This would give the state a game preserve and public shooting grounds of a million acres. In this area are herds of moose and a very rare herd of caribou. Other wild animals and game birds abound," he said.

Dr. G. H. Ribbel, president of the club announced that the district conference of Rotary would be held April 15 and 16 at Minot, N. D. He urged a 100 per cent attendance.

On January 15 Miss Eula Michael, city and school nurse, addressed the club, outlining the health program now being conducted in the city schools, of the assistance received from Brainerd physicians and dentists and the relief given Brainerd poor.

"We appreciate the assistance that the doctors have given us in the promotion of health among school children in the city," said Miss Michael. Miss Marie Adair spoke concerning her school work.

Childish Intelligence

The intelligence quotient, or "I. Q.," of a child is determined by multiplying its mental age by 100 and dividing by the actual age. Thus the intelligence quotient of a normal child is 100. A child with an "I. Q." below 80 is rated as subnormal, while one with an "I. Q." above 120 is rated as gifted. About five children in 100 will be found to be 20 below normal and about five 20 above normal.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months—Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail."

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

Childish Intelligence

The intelligence quotient, or "I. Q." of a child is determined by multiplying its mental age by 100 and dividing by the actual age. Thus the intelligence quotient of a normal child is 100. A child with an "I. Q." below 80 is rated as subnormal, while one with an "I. Q." above 120 is rated as gifted. About five children in 100 will be found to be 20 below normal and about five 20 above normal.

Tom Mix Coming in "Outlawed" is Fast Film

In a rattling, fast-moving western drama, of the type he has made the most popular of screen attractions,

Tom Mix and his FBO outfit are coming to the Lyceum theatre on Saturday only, which will probably be all too short for the steadily growing army of Mix enthusiasts.

"Outlawed" is the striking title of Tom's new picture.

HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months—Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail."

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

More Dollars Per Person! ---Not More Persons Per Dollar

Suppose, for example, that the basic income which justifies the existence of Brainerd and her immediate trade territory is $5,000,000, and that you, in your business or trade or profession, get such-and-such a percentage of that amount. If you can double that $5,000,000 without increasing the number participating in it your own percentage should double with it, should it not? But if you retain the same total income and double the number of people who must divide it, you proportionately decrease your own income. Whenever you have reached a point where there are so many dollars per person that they are an uncomfortable load plenty of people will come in to help carry them. The present problem, then, is to get more dollars rather than more people.

Developing the Tourist Trade Is the Best Solution What Specific Thing Can Brainerd Do About It?

In the opinion of the Hotel Committee a strictly modern, high class resort hotel on a nearby lake will do more to advertise Brainerd as the center of resort activities than any one thing. It will do more to bring in all kinds of tourists than anything else. It will be the greatest aid possible in colonizing all kinds of lake shore.

Impatient Griselda

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO Irene Robeline it was a painful duty to sit up at the vigil of Lilith Holden. The story of Lilith's capture of handsome Quinn Holden, young minister of the Texas town, as told by Mattie Anson, village gossip, was like stabs with a knife. Lilith was the prettiest girl in town. Her coquetry didn't stop at the church, but almost before she knew it she had married Holden. A year later, with the birth of a child, Lilith died. Irene's heart aches for Holden, who attempts to care for the infant with the aid of a colored servant. The minister comes to her for advice, never realizing Irene's passion for him. Will Lundy, town doctor, in love with Irene, is equally ignorant of her secret. Even Mattie Anson who, hints that it is time for Irene to marry Lundy, is deceived. But when Lundy asserts his love Irene rejects him and determines the more to win Holden. She learns the care of babies so as to be of help to him, for his whole life is wrapped up in the pretty child, in whom he sees the dead Lilith. More and more the young father seeks Irene's advice about the infant's care. But Abby Whitaker also has her cap set for the young widower. Disension appears in the church ranks when the deacons decide, against Holden's advice, to throw out a drinking member. Irene, discarding modesty, wishes to tell Holden of her love for him, but loses her courage in his presence.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

Irene stood in the quiet street outside the church for a moment, pained, irresolute, despairing. . . . She knew the nature of the deacons too well to hope that they would change from their position, no matter what the pastor or anyone else said. Where other people had opinions, the deacons held convictions—and held them with the grip of a turtle that won't let go till it thunders. What thunder could impress the deacons?

Her trembling hands held no bolts to hurl.

Quinn was going away. . . . She would never see him again, or maybe not for years. "Miss Robeline, this is my wife," he would say to her some day. Some other woman in another church would win his love, would mother his child, would bear him other children.

She put her clenched hand to her lips and gave a little moan.

A man was coming toward her, she must move on or she would attract attention. Did she look as desperate as she felt?

She walked on. . . . The sky was clear and blue. How could it be so beautiful when there was such a flaw in the universe—when Quinn was going away—when love and youth and happiness would pass out of her life with him? The air was warm, for it was May again now, but she shivered.

May again, with blossoms everywhere—roses, lilies, larkspur, all the garden flowers. A blight smote them suddenly and to her eyes they withered on their stalks. . . . Then the dizziness passed and she saw them bright and brave again. . . . Flowers were for funerals. . . . Just a year ago Lilith was covered with them. Light-hearted Lilith, gay as the dance of a sunbeam, lovely as a bough of flowering Hawthorn, Lilith, who had never loved him, but whom he couldn't forget.

Almost three years she had loved him, suffered this torment, this suspense. Why did love come to her only as an anguish? Other girls loved lightly, forgot easily. But when her soul wrenched from her body at death, wouldn't she, Irene Robeline, be loving Quinn Holden? There were some who didn't forget.

He was so absent-minded in her presence, as if he didn't even see her. If he didn't care at all, if he never was going to, why, why couldn't she stop loving him? Where was her pride? But what had pride to do with love? . . . She felt curiously remote, cut off from the world. Her senses registered the details about her, but as in a vacuum, as through plate glass, through some impermeable substance that brought no emotional response. She saw on the Wilcox lawn a negro boy cutting grass, his blue-shirted shoulders humped over, saw the fragments of grass flying back from the machine like a green swarm of insects, heard his drowsy song and the spitting whir of his lawn mower, smelled the fresh-cut grass in a dewy way, with none of the appreciative thrill which such trifles usually brought her. She saw the rounded green tops of the umbrella China-trees with their straggly blossoms, black and lavender, the fragrance of which recalled the necklaces and bracelets she had made of them in her childhood. Such a joyous little girl so long ago! Would she ever be happy again?

It was cruel that a girl's happiness could be determined by whether some one man out of all the world liked her looks—or was absent-minded when she was with him. . . . Oh, Pride, help, help her to forget!

But Pride didn't help. . . . Up the street she saw the chairman of the board of deacons coming, and a sudden mad rage possessed her to think that a man like that, with a mind as narrow as a knife blade, could wreck her happiness. If only she could thwart him in some way! Think! Irene, think! Isn't there something possible?

She passed him with head high and cheeks scarlet with passion.

"Hello, Irene."

"How do you do, Mr. Whitaker?"

"Come out to business meeting tomorrow night," he said with his usual look.

"I'll be there," she called back over her shoulder.

Then a little farther on she stopped suddenly. Maybe something might be done yet. Why couldn't she ask the young people to come to the meeting? Pack the convention—outvote the deacons. There were young men and girls in the church, with votes to cast, who never cast them, who never bothered to come to the business meetings of the church because they held impotent resentment against the deacons. Why not round them up?

She couldn't tell the truth about the situation, but she could hint a crisis—could stir their curiosity—could wake them up. It was worth trying, at least.

Her pace quickened as she turned toward the business part of town, where the young men would be at their desks and counters on Saturday afternoon, young men who were enthusiastic over Quinn Holden and who had small love for the deacons. She mobilized these reinforcements in her mind. How could she show them the emergency and get their aid? From office to office, from counter to counter, from food stores to newspaper desks, from laundries to bakeries, to all sorts of places where young men worked, she went in search of those who were members of the Baptist Church.

"Early—to get a good seat," she reminded each voter. To a man they promised. Their eyes lighted up with foresight of the conflict, and they checked at the prospect of a show-down with the deacons. There was little excitement in the town at the moment, and so youth relished a combat. And since each young man would escort his girl, that would provide a preponderance of youth at church on Sunday evening. The only young man belonging to the Baptist Church that she didn't see was Will Lundy. He was coming to see her that evening anyhow, and she could talk with him then. But it would not be easy. She was glad to postpone it for even a few hours. What would he think of her?

She dressed in her prettiest dress that evening, a warm yellow that brought out her dusky coloring, arranged her hair in the way she knew Will liked it best, touched it with delicate perfume, and gave fastidious attention to powdering her face. She studied her reflection in the mirror. She didn't need any rouge surely for her cheeks were like roses—pale pink, petal soft, and her lips were vivid. "Will Lundy will think me—well, at least pretty," she said, with a smile at her mirrored face. "Oh, why can't he?"

As Will's step sounded on the porch, she sped to meet him. She must not see him in the house, but there on the porch where the vine tracery of the shadows could hide her telltale eyes from him. Will Lundy was clever, so clever, but he mustn't learn too much to-night or tomorrow night.

He stood in the light from the doorway, smiling at sight of her, tall, ruddy, his coppery head turned, his big frame erect as an Indian's.

"My, but you're beautiful to-night, honey girl!"

"Am I?" she said, dimpling demurely, and casting down her long dark lashes to hide the wistfulness in her eyes. How cruel for the worlds of love to come from the wrong lips!

"You're like the prairie when the spring flowers are all in bloom." His gray eyes lighted with love as he gazed at her, his two hands holding her slim hands folded together so they could not escape from his clasp.

He drew her beside him into the shadow of the lacy vines.

"Oh, Irene, can't you love me?"

Her hands fluttered away from his like frightened partridges.

"No, no!" she cried. "I'm so sorry."

"But why, but why? I know I'm not good enough for you, but then no man is."

Tears burned her eyes at thought of his pain and her own.

"Life is so hard," she faltered. "Why can't we be happy?"

He drew her into his arms and pressed his lips to hers. But she thrust him back.

"Why, Irene?" he begged.

She turned to face him, tense, her body rigid, her cheeks hot. "I can't!"

She saw his face in a patch of light, somber, brooding, rebellious, his gray eyes like coals of fire.

"Irene, will you ever know what love means? How it can hurt?"

"If I could ever forget!" she cried with bitterness greater than his.

His startled face turned to hers, still in the patch of yellow light.

"What do you mean?" he jerked.

She took a step toward him, her body trembling, hot and cold by turns, as if she were physically ill.

Her words were wrenched from some awful reserve, as if to speak them would kill her. But she must speak, for Will Lundy's sake.

"I never thought to tell anyone," she cried in a strangled voice. "But you are so good—and I do love you—in every way but—the one!"

She stopped aghast at the look in his face. It was as if molten lava were suddenly frozen by some awful force of nature. There was living agony in the gray eyes that stared down at her.

"What is it, Irene? Tell me—quick!"

"I love Quinn Holden!" she cried sharply. "I do know how love can hurt—nearly kill!"

Spencer Is Taking Four Bottles of Sargol With Him to Florida

The following enthusiastic statement was made by John C. Spencer, of 498 Sixty-third avenue, West Allis, Milwaukee, who for thirty years was actively engaged in the commercial and civic life of that city, but who recently retired from active business to devote more time to his real estate holdings in West Allis, Wis., and Florida. Mr. Spencer has lived in Milwaukee forty-five years, is well known and highly esteemed. He said:

"I am leaving for Florida in a few days and will take four bottles of Sargol with me. I don't intend to be without this wonderful medicine."

"For the past year I have been in wretched health, suffering from rheumatism and other troubles on account of an inactive liver, principally. I lost weight rapidly and my strength was ebbing away. I was constantly troubled by indigestion and constipation."

"I felt a marked improvement after my first few doses of Sargol. Three bottles put me in wonderful condition. My appetite is splendid now, my digestion is sound. I have gained ten pounds and my strength has returned in proportion. I'm going to continue the treatment of course—for I wouldn't be without Sargol."

Sargol may be obtained in Brainerd from H. P. Dunn; and in Pequot from A. S. Rasmussen. —Advt.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO Irene Robeline it was a painful duty to sit up at the vigil of Lilith Holden. The story of Lilith's capture of handsome Guinn Holden, young minister of the Texas town, as told by Mattie Anson, village gossip, was like stabs with a knife. Lilith was the prettiest girl in town. Her coquetry didn't stop at the church, but almost before she knew it she had married Holden. A year later, with the birth of a child, Lilith died. Irene's heart aches for Holden, who attempts to care for the infant with the aid of a colored servant. The minister comes to her for advice, never realizing Irene's passion for him. Will Lundy, town doctor, in love with Irene, is equally ignorant of her secret. Even Mattie Anson who, hints that it is time for Irene to marry Lundy, is deceived. But when Lundy asserts his love Irene rejects him and determines the more to win Holden. She learns the care of babies so as to be of help to him, for his whole life is wrapped up in the pretty child, in whom he sees the dead Lilith. More and more the young father seeks Irene's advice about the infant's care. But Abby Whitaker also has her cap set for the young widower. Dissension appears in the church ranks when the deacons decide, against Holden's advice, to throw out a drinking member. Irene, discarding modesty, wishes to tell Holden of her love for him, but loses her courage in his presence.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

Irene stood in the quiet street outside the church for a moment, pained, irresolute, despairing. . . . She knew the nature of the deacons too well to hope that they would change from their position, no matter what the pastor or anyone else said. Where other people had opinions, the deacons held convictions—and held them with the grip of a turtle that won't let go till it thunders. What thunder could impress the deacons?

Her trembling hands held no bolts to hurl.

Quinn was going away. . . . She would never see him again, or maybe not for years. "Miss Robeline, this is my wife!" he would say to her some day. Some other woman in another church would win his love, would mother his child, would bear him other children.

She put her clenched hand to her lips and gave a little moan.

A man was coming toward her so she must move on or she would attract attention. Did she look as desperate as she felt?

She walked on. . . . The sky was clear and blue. How could it be so beautiful when there was such a flaw in the universe—when Quinn was going away—when love and youth and happiness would pass out of her life with him? The air was warm, for it was May again now, but she shivered.

May again, with blossoms everywhere—roses, lilies, larkspur, all the garden flowers. . . . A bright smile then suddenly and to her eyes they withered on their stalks.

. . . Then the dizziness passed and she saw them bright and brave again. . . . Flowers were for funerals. . . . Just a year ago Lilith was covered with them. Light-hearted Lilith, gay as the dance of a sunbeam, lovely as a bough of flowering hawthorn. Lilith, who had never loved him, but whom he couldn't forget.

Almost three years she had loved him, suffered this torment, this suspense. Why did love come to her only as an anguish? Other girls loved lightly, forgot easily. But when her soul wrenched from her body at death, wouldn't she, Irene Robeline, be loving Quinn Holden? There were some who didn't forget.

He was so absent-minded in her presence, as if he didn't even see her. If he didn't care at all, if he never was going to, why, why couldn't she stop loving him? Where was her pride? But what had pride to do with love? . . .

She felt curiously remote, cut off from the world. Her senses registered the details about her, but as in a vacuum, as through plate glass, through some impermeable substance that brought no emotional response. She saw on the Wilcox lawn a negro boy cutting grass, his blue-shirted shoulders humped over, saw the fragments of grass flying back from the machine like a green swarm of insects, heard his drowsy song and the spitting whirr of his lawn mower, smelled the fresh-cut grass—but in a dead way, with none of the appreciative thrill which such trifles usually brought her. She saw the rounded green tops of the umbrella China-trees with their straggly blossoms, black and lavender, the fragrance of which recalled the necklaces and bracelets she had made of them in her childhood. Such a joyous little girl so long ago! Would she ever be happy again? . . .

It was cruel that a girl's happiness could be determined by whether some one man out of all the world liked her looks—or was absent-minded when she was with him. . . . Oh, Pride, help, help her to forget!

But Pride didn't help. . . . Up the street she saw the chairman of the board of deacons coming, and a sudden mad rage possessed her to think that a man like that, with a mind as narrow as a knife blade, could wreck her happiness. If only she could thwart him in some way! Think! Irene, think! Isn't there something possible?

She passed him with head high and cheeks scarlet with passion. "Hello, Irene."

"How do you do, Mr. Waitaker?"

"Come out to business meeting tomorrow night," he said with his weasel look.

"I'll be there," she called back over her shoulder.

Then a little farther on she stopped suddenly. Maybe something might be done yet. Why couldn't she ask the young people to come to the meeting? Pack the convention—outvote the deacons. There were young men and girls in the church, with votes to cast; who never cast them, who never bothered to come to the business meetings of the church because they held impotent resentment against the deacons. Why not round them up?

She couldn't tell the truth about the situation, but she could hint a crisis—could stir their curiosity—could wake them up. It was worth trying, at least.

Her pace quickened as she turned toward the business part of town, where the young men would be at their desks and counters on Saturday afternoon, young men who were enthusiastic over Guinn Holden and who had small love for the deacons. She mobilized these reinforcements in her mind. How could she show them the emergency and get their aid?

From office to office, from counter to counter, from food stores to newspaper desks, from laundries to bakeries, to all sorts of places where young men worked, she went in search of those who were members of the Baptist Church.

"Early—to get a good seat," she reminded each voter.

To a man they promised. Their eyes lighted up with foresight of the conflict, and they chuckled at the prospect of a show-down with the deacons. There was little excitement in the town at the moment, and so youth relished a combat. And since each young man would escort his girl, that would provide a preponderance of youth at church on Sunday evening. The only young man belonging to the Baptist Church that she didn't see was Will Lundy. He was coming to see her that evening anyhow, and she could talk with him then. But it would not be easy. She was glad to postpone it for even a few hours. What would he think of her?

She dressed in her prettiest dress that evening, a warm yellow that brought out her dusky coloring, arranged her hair in the way she knew Will liked it best, touched it with delicate perfume, and gave fastidious attention to powdering her face. FORMER KAISER TO CELEBRATE 70TH BIRTHDAY

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 25.—(UP)—One hundred laborers worked on the estate of the former kaiser today, stringing lights in the gardens, trimming the shrubbery, and furnishing the entire place for the gala celebration of Wilhelm's 70th birthday on Sunday.

Visitors already have begun to arrive and by Saturday night Doorn hotels near the kaiser's estate will be filled with former royalty, relatives of the kaiser, old family friends of the Hohenzollerns, and prominent Germans.

The celebration will be a gala affair. Only the immediate family will attend the birthday dinner, but elaborate fetes and receptions which all will attend have been planned. The former kaiser will receive his guests under an impressive canopy erected over the door of Doorn house.

The former crown prince and his family are enjoying the sights of Amsterdam and probably will arrive here today.

Spencer Is Taking Four Bottles of Sargol With Him to Florida

The following enthusiastic statement was made by John C. Spencer, of 498 Sixty-third avenue, West Allis, Milwaukee, who for thirty years was actively engaged in the commercial and civic life of that city, but who recently retired from active business to devote more time to his real estate holdings in West Allis, Wis., and Florida. Mr. Spencer has lived in Milwaukee forty-five years, is well known and highly esteemed. He said:

"I am leaving for Florida in a few days and will take four bottles of Sargol with me. I don't intend to be without this wonderful medicine. For the past year I have been in wretched health, suffering from rheumatism and other troubles on account of an inactive liver, principally. I lost weight rapidly and my strength was ebbing away. I was constantly troubled by indigestion and constipation.

"I felt a marked improvement after my first few doses of Sargol. Three bottles put me in wonderful condition. My appetite is splendid now, my digestion is sound. I have gained ten pounds and my strength has returned in proportion. I'm going to continue the treatment, of course—for I wouldn't be without Sargol."

Sargol may be obtained in Brainerd from H. P. Dunn; and in Pequot from A. S. Rasmussen. —Adv't.
